Government Expenses.

The letter of the Secretary of the Treasury, asking for $824,000,000 to run the Government during the next fiscal year in reality comes far from measuring up the amount of money Congress will be asked to provide for this session. The aggregate is about $1,057,000,000, if the post-office appropriation is taken into account. If to this be added the permanent appropriations, which amount roughly to $150,000,000, the total is $1,207,000,000. The amount needed for the postal service is $233,000,000. Neither this item nor the permanent appropriations were included in the estimate. The income from the postal service falls about $17,000,000 short of meeting the expenses, so that the net outlay that the Government will have to make is approximately $1,000,000,000.

Sheriff May Become a Millionaire

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 5.—The Southern Pacific Railroad Company has decided to appeal from the decision rendered by Judge Stout, involving back taxes amounting to over $6,000,000, for five years past.

If the Appellate Court sustains Judge Stout, Sheriff R. C. Heatt, merely for permitting the use of his name, will receive nearly $1,000,000. The sworn statement of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is that its tangible property is worth $175,000,000, and former Attorney-General N. B. Hays contended that is the value that the State Board of Valuation and Assessment must fix on it. If the property is so assessed, and the Appellate Court says that the railroad company must pay taxes on this assessment, then the back taxes paid will amount to between $4,000,000 and $4,500,000. The law provides that an additional 20 per cent. must be paid to the collecting officer, and that officer is Sheriff Heatt.

AGRICULTURE

(By T. J. Bigstaff.)

Agriculture is the oldest and most honored of all the work of man. The story of Creation as related in the Old Testament says "and the Lord God took the man (Adam) and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it." This was before he had created woman (Eve), and it was Eve that caused the Creator to "curse the ground" and make it "bring forth thorns and thistles, etc."

Cain was the next cultivator of the soil, but his fruits of the soil or his offerings were not acceptable in the sight of the Lord. However, even before the Bible was written (and the story of the creation is substantially the same in all the older religions) we have the beautiful story from the Greeks and Romans of "Ceres," the goddess of agriculture (and from her name is derived our word "cereal") and her only daughter "Proserpine," "of wonderful loveliness and the joy of her mother's heart." "When the world was new they dwelt together upon the earth." One day she strayed off gathering flowers, when "Pluto," the god of the underworld, stole her, and her mother mourned her loss until told where she was by a poor family who had a sick son named "Triptolemus."

"Ceres" rewarded these poor people by healing "Triptolemus" and promising to some day teach him what would make him honored by all mankind. Ceres found her daughter in Pluto's regions, and she consented to spend only half her time above earth and the other half of the year with Pluto under the ground. So that is why Ceres, the goddess of grain, and Proserpine, her daughter, like the grain, fruit and flowers, comes forth in the spring, grow from the face of the earth with the warm sunshine and then disappear in winter. Ceres did not forget her promise to "Triptolemus," the poor boy, but taught him the use of the plow, the sowing and harvesting of grain, so that according to Grecian mythology, Triptolemus was the first farmer. The Greeks celebrated the harvesting of grain with great magnificence, known as the "Eleusinian Mysteries," and was the great religious event of the year, and the growing grain is as great a mystery today.

The Romans also had a similar celebration called "Cerialia" or Ceres gifts.

The Hebrews also celebrated by "bringing the first sheaf of the harvest as an offering to Jehovah" and also in their "Festival of Pentecost or Harvest Feast."

Also the Assyrians and Babylonians honored the harvest with religious rites, and recently an ancient monument discovered shows Assyrian working in priestly robes offering in sacrifice an ear of wheat.

China paid the same honor to rice 2700 B. C. And the most ancient Egyptians not only had religious and State ceremonies in honor of wheat, but buried the seed with their most honored dead.

Indian corn or "maize" was similarly harvested by the American Indian and the Peruvians had a god of corn called "Puma."

And our day of Thanksgiving originated in the historical fact that the early colonists of North America owed their lives and would have starved but for the Indian corn native only to America.

So it may be seen from these extracts from history that in every great and growing country from the earliest times, agriculture has been particularly honored, and that cereals and civilization have ever gone hand in hand, and where there is no agriculture there is no advancement, and as nations have advanced in culture and civilization they have advanced and improved the agriculture of the country.

"Liddell's History of Rome" says that in the early times of Rome the work of the farm was the only kind of manual labor deemed worthy of a free citizen.

"This feeling long survived, as may be seen from the praise bestowed on agriculture by Cicero." The taste for book farming continued. They wrote books on farming in those days, too.

The poet, Horace, when cloyed with the pleasures of the imperial city, had but to mount his mule and ride fifteen minutes to reach his farm, and to this day his farm is visited by travelers in Rome.

Cincinnatus was plowing in his fields when called to put on the robe of the Consul or Dictator of Rome.

Bancroft says that the great employment of France was the tillage of land, than which no method of gain is more grateful in itself or more worthy of freemen, or more happy in rendering service to the whole human race. No occupation is newer Heaven.

Knight's English History says that the great Edmund Burke was an agricultural improver. Young saw him experimenting on carrots at his farm in Beacon's field and says Buckinghamshire will be much indebted to the attention this manly genius gives to husbandry.

No history shows us that when each great country was in the zenith of its power, then its agriculture was at its best, and we may conclude that agriculture made it great.

Without going as far back as Babylon, when its hanging gardens were the wonder of the world, when Persia's plains were fertile, her people were greatest, and as her soil deteriorated just so did her people.

The same may be said of the Egyptians, of the Grecians and the Romans. When Cato was asked what was the most profitable kind of farming he said: "Good grazing." What next, "Tolerable grazing." What next, "Bad grazing."

What next? Corn-growing. Later writers, with one accord, deplored the diminished productivity of land.—Liddell's Rome, page 497.

While Italy's soil was being exhausted, and her agriculture abandoned, France on the other hand began to encourage the peasantry in good farming until today her farmers are the most intensive and money making agriculturists in the whole world, and are so in love with their good land that they do not travel, much less leave their homes for other lands; and they are so thrifty that they own nearly all of the bonds of their own beloved France, and instead of their soil being deteriorated, they have been so conserved and improved that the soil of France is richer today than when first cultivated. Holland, too, which is lower than the sea, and has been actually stolen from the bottom of the Ocean by the thrifty Dutch, has been made one of the richest of all countries, who sell the most butter and cheese, and count as their greatest profit the manure from their cows with which to keep up the fertility of their land.

As the wealth of France and Holland has been made and increased by agriculture and stock-raising, England today is the most famous for fine farming and the best of blooded live stock, Macaulay says in his History of England, Vol. 1, Ch. 3. Reign of Charles 2nd deeply impressed with these great truths, the professors of the new philosophy applied themselves to their task, and before a quarter of a century had expired they had given ample earnest of what has since been achieved. Already a reform of agriculture had been commenced. New vegetables were cultivated. New implements of husbandry were employed. NEW MANURES WERE APPLIED TO THE SOIL. Evelyn had, under the formal sanction of the Royal Society, given instructions to his countrymen in planting. Temple, in his intervals of leisure, had tried many experiments in horticulture, and had proved many delicate fruits, the natives of more favored climates, might, with the help of art, be grown on English ground.

The lords and dukes of England and have been the largest land owners and most progressive farmers, and are proudest of the production of their soils and the production of the most improved live stock in the world, even the late Queen Victoria, and her son, the present King, being the proudest and most successful agriculturists and producers of improved pedigree live stock.

Then it is no wonder that the French who first came to this country of America, and contrasted the small farms of France, averaging about one and one half acres, to the boundless West, called the Louisiana Territory, and saw the rich and virgin soil, was only necessary to scratch to receive and grow the maize or Indian corn, were well pleased with their new home, and they called their vast holdings of land "plantations" and thought their soil could never be exhausted.

The good substantial Dutch farmers landed in New York and thought the same of their soil, and the well bred and younger sons of royal families of England (who did not inherit the home estate) landed in Virginia where they laid out estates fit for royalty, and planned the most beautiful and comfortable of houses after the Grecian architecture, with the more homelike house combined into what now called the Colonial.

Even in those early days the soil of Virginia began to show lack of something, or exhaustion in raising the same crop year after year, and the more adventurous came over the mountains and discovered the now famous blue grass region of Kentucky, where no one had ever lived before, for no tribe of Indians would permit any other tribe to come to this favored garden (where the earliest history says that flowers bloomed throughout the winter and grass was always green) excepting to hunt game and fight among themselves.

As geologists now claim that America is the oldest continent in time of creation, she is certainly the youngest in agriculture. At the same time her rich soils have been wasted until she is more worn and exhausted than England, Holland and France, the country of our earliest settlers came from.

Valuable suggestions are given to farmers in an article: "Double Corn Yield." Read it.

We give from the Evening Post an excellent article on "Organized Lawlessness and the Saloon."

The farmers who pooled their 1908 tobacco are this week receiving from E. Y. Nelson 4-5 of the reserve fund, held back to cover expenses.

JUDICIAL, PRIMARY.

In the 25th Judicial district, containing Clark, Jessamine, Madison and Powell counties, there are two candidates for Judge: J. M. Benton, present incumbent, and J. Smith Hays, both of Winchester. The committee met at Richmond and declared if either candidate, directly or indirectly, himself or by his friends, should give, loan or promise money, liquor or anything of value for the purpose of promoting his candidacy or influencing votes, the vote of such candidate should be thrown out and not counted. Each candidate shall make oath in accordance with these provisions and before the certificate shall be awarded the winner he shall make oath that he has complied with these provisions.

Both Judge Benton and Judge Hays declared in favor of the resolution and indicated their willingness to take the oath.

All elections should be free from corrupting influences. Both of the candidates are deacons of the Winchester Christian Church, and we would not expect men of such an exalted position to resort to such practices in political affairs, even if the committee had not adopted such a resolution. It is better to obey God than man. Ambition for worldly honor and emolument are secondary to divine approval.

You'll find it at the Country Store, December 18 and 19.

LAST APPEAL.

The closing of the saloon at Jeffersonville will not completely stop the use of whiskey by the people of that precinct, but will lessen it, and will save many people from frequent temptations, will mean more money for shoes, clothing, food, ornaments for the home, will bring higher ideas of living, better men, better homes, a more respectable community, and will save, no doubt, one or more from a drunkard's home, a drunkard's grave and a drunkard's hell. We see no justifiable excuse for any citizen voting to perpetuate a saloon. The happy Christmas time draws nigh.

Spend your money for something which will bring comfort and happiness to your wives and children, and honor to your selves. Let this be the last Christmas when a saloon can exist in your precinct.

Good Cough Medicine For Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure the cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starcher, of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children and it has always given satisfaction." Organized Lawlessness and the Saloon.

One statement that is supposed to be conclusive against prohibition is that prohibition does not prohibit. This is not an argument, and it is not to be accepted as a statement of an indisputable fact. If it were the only thing that could be urged against prohibition, prohibition would soon sweep the whole country.

The Evening Post believes that it is better for all interests concerned that we should deal with the liquor question upon the right lines of the law. It denies that the right to sell liquor is an inherent, personal right or that the right to drink liquor ad libitum is an inherent public right.

The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that men are not deprived of any natural right to sell liquor by law, but that the law states the only conditions under which the traffic can be tolerated.

But "prohibition does not prohibit." If it does not prohibit, failure is due to the fact that there is an organized movement for the violation of prohibitory laws.

The laws prohibiting the sale of liquor are not violated by the total abstainers, not violated by the prohibitionists, not violated by the community at large. Then are violated, when violated, by the organized liquor interests who refuse obedience to the mandates of the statutes and who use every device in their power to evade them.

When men assume this attitude toward other statutes they are considered as belonging to the criminal classes and treated as criminals. Smugglers, violators of the postal laws, forgers and a host of criminals who seek to evade statutes that interfere with their personal liberties or their personal plans for making a living, are indicted and treated with little consideration by the public. They are seen to be enemies of society, anti-social agents, menacing the best interests of the community in which they live.

But we never hear men defend these violators of the law, pleading with the public that laws against smuggling or theft or burglary or highway robbery or forgery are not effective and do not prevent these crimes and using that statement as an argument for the abandonment of the statutes. Louisville Evening Post.

NO REASON FOR IT.

Then Mt. Sterling Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes of any kidneyills when relief is near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Mt. Sterling citizen says:

H. W. Willoughby, living on W. Locust St., Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I strained my back in doing some heavy lifting about two years ago and from that time on until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. C. Duerson's drug store, I was in a miserable condition on account of a lameness in my back. I could scarcely bend over or regain an erect position and I lost one whole season's work on account of this disease. Some time my back ached so severely as to be almost unbearable. I used different remedies, but did not find relief until a friend finally recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to me. By the time I had taken the contents of three or four boxes I was a well man and I have not had the least sign of trouble with my back or kidneys since. I am glad to give my testimonial in favor of such a reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

ONE MARRIAGE

Out of Twelve Has a Divorce Court Finale

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, Nov. 30.—The chances for married happiness, according to the statistics just compiled by the Census Bureau, are one in 12. Out of every 12 marriages contracted, not less than one is terminated by divorce.

During the past 40 years divorces in the United States have increased at a tremendous rate. During the 20 years from 1887 to 1906, inclusive, the total number of divorces was 945,625. During the 20-year period, from 1867 on, the total number was 328,716. At the beginning of the 40-year period divorces were being turned out by our courts at the rate of 10,000 a year; at the end of this period they were coming out at the rate of 66,000 a year.

The total number of marriages between 1887 and 1906 was 12,832,044. During the first year recorded there were 483,069 marriages and the number increased to 853,290 in 1906. The rate of the increase was not uniform.

WIVES GOT THEM.

The figures show that the wife generally secures the divorce. At least two thirds of the number of divorces granted during the past 20 years were accorded to the wives.

The experts hold that it is not necessarily due to the greater depravity of the man that the woman secures the divorce more frequently, but in actual practice it is found there are more well-recognized and available grounds on which a woman can secure a divorce than there are provided for the man. For example, there are many divorces granted for "neglect to provide" or nonsupport, which a husband seeking divorce does not often find to be an available ground. The investigation, however, is turned up six cases in the State of Utah in which husbands obtained divorces from their wives on that ground.

THE GREAT EVIL.

The most common single ground for divorce is desertion. This accounts for 38.9 per cent of all the divorces in the last 20 years.

The average duration of marriages terminated by divorce is about 10 years. Sixty per cent, or three-fifths, last less than 10 years, and 40 per cent last longer. The number of divorces occurring in the first year of married life is about half as many as during the second year, and the number increases until it reaches its maximum in its fifth year. From that point the number diminishes.

Children were reported in 39.8 per cent of the total number of divorce cases.

AMERICA'S UNSPEAKABLE STAIN

By James Cardinal Gibbons.

Divorce today, and I say it without reserve, is the one great black spot upon American civilization. It is terrible, unspeakable, outrageous. The number of divorces in the United States in proportion to the population is the greatest in the world. Think of that stain on our escutcheon! The great crimes and scandals which are exciting so much comment nowadays can be traced directly to a lack of sanctity in our family relations. It is not so much marriage, but the sacredness of marriage, which must be recognized. Until then society can hardly hope to improve.

After Others Fail.

D. C. Scott, Avon, Ky., says: "I used Burton Hox Cholera Remedy after other remedies had failed and it speedily effected a cure. It cured several severe cases in my neighborhood without the loss of a single hog." Wm. S. Lloyd.

Heart Weakness

The action of the heart depends upon the heart nerves and muscles. When from any cause they become weak or exhausted, and fail to furnish sufficient power, the heart flutters, palpitates, skips beats; and in its effort to keep up its work, causes pain and distress, such as smothering spells, short breath, fainting, pain around heart, arms and shoulders. The circulation is impeded, and the entire system suffers from lack of nourishment.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure makes a heart strong and vigorous by strengthening these nerves and muscles.

"I had palpitation and pain around my heart, and the doctors said it was incurable. I don't believe I ever felt better than I do now. After taking six bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, three bottles of Dr. Miles' Food, and three boxes of Dr. Miles' Kidney Pills, I am entirely cured, and it is all due to these remedies. I would like you to know that your medicine cured me. It relieved me from the pain in my chest, and I kept right on till the pain in my chest was gone, and I kept on feeling better until after I quit taking it." JOHN H. RICHARDS, Reading, Mich.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

UNUSUAL CASE.

Notice Not Given to Purchasers.

An unusual case was tried in the court of Justice Ben D. Bell, Lexington, on December 4. The Central Kentucky Cigar Manufacturing Company sued the Lexington Brewing Company to collect a bill of $17.50 for cigars sold to A. S. Johnson, a saloonist. Johnson gave the brewery a mortgage on his stock of goods and fixtures and later sold them the outfit, they later selling the place to another. The goods were sold to Johnson and the suit was brought against the purchasers of his stock under an act of 1904 which provides that where a stock of goods is sold in bulk without due notice to creditors the purchaser may be made liable for the debts due to creditors not notified and given an opportunity to present their claims.

Accident.

An accident occurred at the mouth of Lost Creek, ten miles from Jackson, Ky., on December 9. The accident was caused by a rope giving away in the construction of a new bridge across Lost Creek, one of the heavy pieces of the framework falling. Berry T. Combs, a bystander, was instantly killed. Kelly Hoskins was fatally injured, having both legs broken, his thigh crushed and his face badly mashed. Wilgus Combs and another man were also injured.

May Honor Lincoln.

Albert E. Pillsbury, of Boston, proposes that when New Mexico is admitted into the Union the name of the State be changed to Lincoln. Opinion is favorable to the proposal if it is favored by the people of New Mexico.

Before Oklahoma and Indian Territory were admitted as a State the proposal was that the new State should be known as Jefferson, but the people of the territories didn't take kindly to the idea.

Washington is the only President who has had a State named in his honor, and New Mexico and Arizona present the only opportunities in contiguous United States to similarly honor other Presidents.—Lexington Leader.

More Husbands.

Mrs. Leonora Lake, of St. Louis, one of the leading temperance lecturers of the country, spoke to a big no-license rally at Lynn, Mass., December 5. She announced from the platform that she had changed her mind about drink being the worst evil of the country and denounced bachelors.

"Reformers should drop the run evil for a while and devote their attention to this one crying need, more husbands. If men could only be made to see that their after life depends on an early marriage; that with a good home and a good wife, it will be easy, then there will be no need for us to fight the drink evil. It will die of itself."

Beware of Frequent Colds.

A succession of colds or a protracted cold is almost certain to end in chronic catarrh, from which few persons ever wholly recover. Give every cold the attention it deserves and you may avoid this disagreeable disease. How can you cure a cold?

Why not try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended. Mrs. M. White, of Butler, Tenn., says: "Several years ago I was bothered with my throat and lungs. Some one told me of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I began to using it and it relieved it at once. Now my throat and lungs are sound and well." For sale by R. H. White & Co., druggist. 21-5t

Anti-Saloon League Would Push County Unit Bill.

Gov. Willson is to be asked by the Kentucky Anti-Saloon League to call a special session of the Legislature.

The object of the league in requesting an extra session, according to J. W. West, State Superintendent, is that the measure may come before the Legislature without entanglements—that it be the sole measure up for consideration. Mr. West believes that the county unit bill would carry if presented at a session where no other measure or measures are considered. He gives as his reason for his confidence that a majority of both parties will go into the Legislature pledged to vote for the bill.

It is a Wonder.

Chamberlain's Liniment is one of the most remarkable preparations yet produced for the relief of rheumatic pains, and for lame back, sprains and bruises.
